The Truth About Ergonomics: What it can and cannot do for Employers and Employees

Presenter: Dr. Tyler Amell, Chief Relationship Officer, CoreHealth Technologies

Webinar description:

There are no shortage of myths and unsubstantiated claims in the world of workplace health and productivity. This webinar will focus on evidence-informed strategies, that are objectively based on scientific evidence as they relate to the concept of ergonomic design. The webinar will cover some examples of ergonomic principle application, case studies and outcomes, and where the discipline fits in a comprehensive, integrated approach to workplace health and productivity. The truth about its usefulness as a workplace injury and illness control mechanism from both employer and employee perspectives will be covered.

Wednesday, April 10, 2019 (12 Noon to 1 p.m.)

Rate Framework Update – A Claims Management Perspective

Presenter: Michael Zacks, Director (A) and General Counsel, Office of the Employer Adviser

Webinar description:

The WSIB will be instituting a new premium Rate framework model to determine employer premiums next year. This presentation [or webinar – whatever word you want to use] will provide an overview of the significant changes coming about including a new classification system and a new experience rating system. This presentation will be of interest to anyone who wants an understanding of the model and the new WSIB operational policies that implement the Rate Framework all coming into effect on January 1, 2020.

Wednesday, May 1, 2019 (12 Noon to 1 p.m.)

Prescription Medication Impairment

Presenter: Aaron North, co-founder, President and CEO, Vector Medical Corporation

Webinar description:

While there is growing concern among Canadian employers about the risk of worker impairment from cannabis and other drugs of abuse, the conversation has begun to broaden. Increasingly, employers are contemplating the safety implications of impairing prescription medications, including opioids, SSRIs, mood stabilizers, and even nausea medications.

This webinar explores the workplace safety risks associated with neurocognitive and psychomotor side-effects seen in many of today's most widely-used prescription medications. The session then takes a deep dive into the impairment profiles of several common prescription medications, highlighting strategies OHNs can utilize to recognize and manage this long-standing and ever-increasing issue.
