COVID-19 Resources and Updates for Occupational Health Nurses

OOHNA recognizes how busy everyone has become as a result of COVID-19. As the subject matter experts on health-related issues, our workplaces are relying heavily on us to stay informed and provide guidance. To support you in this, we are taking this opportunity to provide you with a list of resources that you may find useful in the weeks ahead.

Given how quickly information is changing we have decided to provide you with valuable links from credible sources, that you can check as the need arises. This list is not all encompassing, and we welcome any member's input if they have come across any other resources that they find useful.

Remember the 4 "S": Stay calm, Seek to be informed, be Supportive of the needs of your organization and Share your expertise as you are not alone.
